

Students are on the field finishing up their last full day of band camp! We hope to see all fans of The Franklin Band here for tomorrow's performance at 7:00 p.m. at Cumberland University. (Directions can be found HERE in last week's email.) Arrive early and look for the FHS Trailer. Park nearby (any lined spot on campus will work) and bring a chair for comfort.

Be sure to have plenty of space in your car for your student and their dirty laundry. (It multiplies at camp!) The performance will be very brief, and if you arrive at 7:15, you've probably missed it.

Band Camp has gone really well and as always, our students have impressed us with their energy and dedication! Here are some final notes to prepare you to come to Cumberland:

- Students will retrieve their luggage from Learning Commons lobby while you check them out and pick up their meds (and DCI tickets if you ordered them) from camp officials. No parents are allowed in the dorms. Look for the check-out table and listen for instructions. Please do not leave campus without literally signing for your student or we can't leave.
- The truck will arrive back at FHS between 8:30 and 9:00 tonight. The camp volunteers are tired and weary (from so much fun and a lack of sleep), and we could use help unloading the big stuff back at the band room. If you've already signed up on Charms, we thank you! If you haven't signed up to volunteer, but are available, we thank you too! (The front ensemble instruments cannot stay on the hot truck in this summer heat.) PLEASE come help unload if you're able.

Finally, on behalf of all the volunteers, we've really enjoyed spending time with your children this week. Discipline has not been an issue, and they have treated us with respect and appreciation.

This is why we love The Franklin Band!
